

Year One, 2/13:

Dear Diary,

I am working on embracing change. Before I came to the wound center, I got the same boring dressing for months on end. It's much more of an adventure now! I never know what will happen next!

Year Two, 8/15:

Dear Diary,

It's been 549 days since my first entry! (That's 18 months and 3 days.) Officially, I have had 34 different treatment protocols documented, which is impressive but not even close to the record. That's an average of 16 days per treatment protocol – but we know better, don't we? Wink, wink. There were a lot more changes than that because lots of times I got whatever was available.

My favorite is the “club sandwich” dressing – a little of everything stacked together, with some ointment!
